The long parlors were decorated with palms, ferns and asparagus fern and before an embanked mantel the bridal party stood. Mr. David M. Levy, of Cincinnati, was master of ceremonles. The ushers, Messrs. Louis Wolfstein, Leo oujsville, Gustav Hoffstadt, of Chicago, and Albert Kahn, of New York, preceded the maid of honor, Miss Martha Kann, sis- | taken under advisement. The evidence ter of the bride, who walked alone and was cinnati, was best man and entered with Rabbi Messing, who performed the cere-mony. An orchestra played the wedding march from "Lohengrin" and "Call Me Thine Own" for the ceremony. The bride wore a gown of white duchesse satin, made en train and with a yoke of chiffon. Below the yoke was a bertha of point lace. Her veil covered her figure and she carried a Bible bound in white. The groom's gift, a sun-burst of diamonds and pearls, was her only jewel. Miss Kahn wore a white silk crepe over white taffeta made with a low corsage and carried a shower bouquet of marguerites. Above the heads of the bridal party was a large butterfly made of flowers in white and rich colors. After the ceremony a banquet was served. The bride's table for the party and nearest relatives was decorated with white, and the tables for the guests in pink and green. JOINT AGENCY FIGURES SHOW 15,190 RAILROAD TICKETS HANDLED.

bout 2,200 Holders of These Not Visitors-Expressions from Hotel Keepers, Garrit Fort, joint ticket agent of the railroads for the Epworth League convention, compiled a statement last night of the business done to date. Most of the leaguers have gone to their homes and there will be few more tickets submitted to the joint agent to be approved. Mr. Fort's statement shows that he and his assistants handled 15,190 tickets. Of this number 4,524 were extended. Of the number of ticketholders applying for extensions Mr. Fort estimates 50 per cent. did not stop in Indianapolis more than long enough to deposit their tickets and then went to other cities or to summer resorts. Finally, he estimates that 12,000 Epworthians and others who took advantage of the lower rates to visit Indianapolis were in the city during the convention. How many of these people staid but a day he did not care to guess, but through he replied that he would not call that an unfair estimate. Yesterday was the big day for Mr. Fort and his assistants and it was hard work for many hours. At previous conventions the work of the joint ticket agency has not been satisfactory, but Mr. Fort and his assistants worked the system without a fault, railroad men say. Mr. Fort is a young man who lives at Chicago and is secretary of the Central Passenger Association. He has had considerable trouble with the scalpers during the convention and has taken up a number of forged tickets sold by scalpers, but he is not of opinion that the scalpers made money out of the Epworth gathering. He will be in the city until to-morrow. The office will be kept open until the tickets deposited for extensions have been called for. Inquiries among merchants of the city vesterday were met with statements that the convention had resulted in an increase of business for the few days that was quite satisfactory. Particularly was the demand for soda water increased. Edward Clancy, manager of Wasson's department store, was enthusiastic. The store had done a greater business, he said, than it had ever had during a July week. He said the low rate had brought excursionists in from all parts of the State to do shopping. Mr. McAllister, of the New York store, said the restaurant and the soda fountains had had all the business they could handle, but there was

THE HOTEL CONTRIBUTIONS. The hotels gave $700 to the convention fund. Of this amount the Grand and Bates gave $125 each, English's gave $100 and the Denison gave $350. The Denison gave the largest amount because the headquarters of the convention was established there. Mr. Cullen said, yesterday, the hotel had cared for nearly five hundred Epworthians, and he was very well satisfied. The management of English's had no complaint. That house had tained twenty-two leaguers. "We did not make our money back," said Mr. Cunningham, the manager. William Holt, manager of the Grand, said his house had only two Epworthians.

"Have you paid your $125 contribution?" he was asked. "No," he replied, "and we haven't de cided yet that we will pay it. The Missour crowd, for whom 150 accommodations were engaged, didn't show up at all. It seems to me that Indianapolis doesn't get conventions until they are worn out. One of the prominent physicians of th city, who takes his meals at the Bates House, went into the hotel yesterday and was handed a bill when he stopped at the desk. It was explained to him that an Epworthian had been his guest at the hotel during the convention. The physician then remembered that he had told a member of Dr. Lasby's committee that he would entertain one of the delegates to the convention He had expected to entertain the visitor at his rooms, which are not in the hotel. Instead the committee wrote to an Epworthian and told him he would be the guest of ---, at the Bates House. The Ep worthian registered at the Bates and asked for a $3 a day room. He turned over to the clerk the letter as an order for his entertainment. He did not call on the physician and when the latter learned, after his "guest" had gone, that he had been paying talk gravely of the strike that the morrow was to bring, for it was generally understood that the thirty-five or more boys employed by the American District Telegraph Company would lay down their books at 9 o'clock this morning and proceed to roll in the mud or dust any lad that dared to "scab." The strikes of messenger boys in other cities seemed to lend those in Indianapolis courage, and suddenly they remembered a long string of grievances against the American company. The boys are a bright lot of chaps, much better than the average run of messengers employed a few years ago around town. They refer to the "good old days' 'when they received $13 a month from the Western Union. Now, they say, they receive but $10 a month, and, besides, are treated unreasonably. They are paid $13 a month only when they own bicycles. "And if you get a puncture," said one of them last night, "it costs you a day's wages to get it fixed." The system of fines is another grievance. Not long ago the American company took charge of the Western Union's delivery service and has been attempting the gouge on the public by collecting extra money for delivering messages outside of a mile from the office. There is an ordinance against this, but the company seems to have no respect for the ordinance. When the ordinance was passed the telegraph companies claimed that the extra the American company now collects this dime and puts it in its treasury, despite the ordinance. Where citizens refuse to pay it the company makes no attempt to collect because it knows that it cannot legally do so, but where the patron makes no com-plaint the money is taken. Few citizens care to take a case of this kind to the Police Court, and so there has been no prosecution, although City Attorney Kern said some time ago that he would take up and push to a conclusion any case of the kind brought before him. The Postal Telegraph Company is not expected to be affected by the strike which

Strike Lasts One Day, and the Boys Will Likely Win. NEW YORK, July 24 .- About two hundred messenger boys employed by the Postal Telegraph Company struck to-day. The offices of the company most affected are in the financial district. The strikers demand that they be paid a flat rate of 21/2 cents for each message; that returned messages which they are unable to deliver shall be paid for the same as delivered messages; that the levying of 50 cents a week on each boy for clothing shall cease, and that the boys be permitted to purchase their own clothing.

To-night's concessions only include the question of hours which the boys will work in the future. The question of increased pay for the delivery of messages and the purchase of uniforms will be considered by the company officials.

RIOTING IN CINCINNATI.

Roustabouts Join Striking Boys and Resort to Violence. CINCINNATI, O., July 24.-The strike of messenger boys, that started last Saturday, became more serious to-night. Two boys were stabbed, several hit by missiles and many slugged with clubs. Most of the violence comes from roustabouts. The street urchins congregated about the Western Union and Postal offices to-night, about a thousand at each place. When any new boys or men went out with messages a gang pursued them with epithets, clubs and stones, When these working messengers took street cars the pursuing mob stoned the cars and some innocent people were hurt, none seriously. The police charged on the mobs repeatedly and scattered them, but the dis-turbers would soon rally again. Later tonight the mob concentrated around the Postal office. The companies to-day refused to recognize the newly-formed union, and at a meeting to-night the boys voted to con-tinue the strike. At this meeting the newsboys and some tobacco-strippers promised to join them to-morrow. The boys will start not a perceptible increase in the demand for | petitions among the business men to-mormerchandise. "It was a large crowd," he row.

NEW POSTOFFICE ENTRANCE.

Secretary of Treasury Hears Objections as to Its Facing North.

According to a dispatch to the Journal from Washington last night, complaint is being made to the secretary of the treasury that the proposed plan for a federal building on the University square site contemplates placing the main entrance to the north, facing the residence portion of the city, instead of the business portion. It was stated that this plan was causing dissatisfaction. This will probably be news to most Indianapolis people, as the matter of an entrance has not been discussed, and there is a suspicion that most of the complaint would come from the property owners on the south half of the square who demand such enormous prices of the government for The main entrance, it is their ground. claimed on the other hand, would make little difference to business men, as long as there are doorways to the south or west where mail may be taken in. An entrance to the north would not be as advantageous to the property owners on the south side of he block as one on the east or the west. Mr. Overstreet has received a letter from the Treasury Department saying that the department had positively decided on the University square site and that the property will be condemned unless a new proposition is made by the owners.

A NEW PARRY PLANT.

Seventy-Five Acres Southeast of the City Bought.

D. M. Parry has purchased a tract of land near the crossing of the Big Four and Belt railroads and will move the Parry Manufacturing Company there. The first new building will be erected this fall. The tract bought by Mr. Parry includes about seventyfive acres and the price paid for it was $30,000. The larger part of the real estate was purchased of Dr. L. D. Waterman, Charles M. Cooper, the German Gardeners' Benefit Association and the Katharine Home. It is the understanding that the Connersville branch of the company will be consolidated with the main plant. It is estimated that it will require about three years to complete the buildings according to the plans of the company. The number of men employed through the year will av-erage 1,000. The Prospect-street car line will be extended to the new plant when it

"In answer to that question," replied Mr. Ransdell, "I will say that if the Republican convention sees fit to make me its nominee I shall be glad to accept. It would be a compliment that any citizen should appreciate, ieve that a Republican can win. As to politics I would deem it my duty to the party that elected me to unify instead of dividing it, and to have it in better shape upon the ex-piration of my term of office than it was when I entered upon it. You may say this much for me if you choose.'

New Candidate Mentioned. Dr. H. L. Hewitt, president of the cradle works at North Indianapolis, is talked of as a Republican candidate for mayor. He is a resident of the Second ward. Yesterday a delegation of his friends called on him and urged him to permit the use of his name. He said he would become a candidate if his friends thought best.

TRIED IT TWICE.

Andrew Haley's Attempts to Commi Suicide Unsuccessful.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PORTLAND, Ind., July 24.-Andrew Haley, a resident of South Portland, made two attempts to-day to commit suicide, but failed in both. The first time he tried to saw him at the act and a struggle for the bottle followed. Three times the husband and wife grappled for its possession, the latter being burned about the arm by the liquid which was spilled. Haley finally obtained possession of it, and took some of the contents. Restoratives and remedies were given him, and he rapidly grew better. He then went to a drug store and pur-chased a supply of morphine, telling the druggist that his wife was suffering from neuralgia of the stomach and that he wanted it in a hurry. While Mrs. Haley was away from the house he swallowed the poison and a neighbor gave the alarm.

Haley resisted the efforts to revive him, and a policeman held him while the physician attended to him.
